

National Geographic-Lindblad Expeditions

12 Nights in Alaska

Seattle to Juneau aboard National Geographic Venture. 13 days, 100 guests.

Your route

From the San Juan Islands to the glacier-cut fjords near Juneau, you sail north through sheltered waters with expedition staff on board.

Puget Sound and the Salish Sea

Day 1 Seattle, Washington. Embark ship

Day 2 San Juan Islands, Washington

Day 3 Victoria, British Columbia

Day 4 Gulf Islands

British Columbia

Day 5 Alert Bay and Johnstone Strait

Day 6 Inside Passage of British Columbia

Day 7 Inside Passage of British Columbia

Day 8 Prince Rupert

Southeast Alaska

Day 9 Misty Fjords

Day 10 Wrangell Narrows, Frederick Sound and Chatham Strait

Day 11 Inian Islands and exploring Southeast Alaska

Day 12 Endicott Arm

Day 13 Juneau, Alaska. Disembark ship

The ship

National Geographic Venture is the sister ship of National Geographic Quest. She was built at Nichols Brothers shipyard on Whidbey Island, the fourth Lindblad ship built there.

Dining

Food on board is fresh and local, sourced whenever possible from suppliers who share the values of sustainable use.

Bars and lounges

The lounge is the heart of the expedition community. It hosts cocktail hour and Recap each evening, plus presentations, photography talks and guest speakers.

Onboard activities

A small reference library is on board, and board games and cards are available.

Ship highlights

- Every cabin has two portholes, a large window or a balcony
- Specially designed open bow and an observation deck for gathering
- Fitness center on the lounge deck, fully equipped
- Morning stretch classes in the open air of the sundeck

Ship details, facts, policies, images and descriptions are provided for information only and may change without notice.